

Free Food... Wild Edibles

Saturday, March 17, 2018

On this walk Wetland Steward, Bob Richie, will share his passion for urban foraging. We'll start with a quick botany lesson on how to positively identify the plants for which we are looking. We will then search out and try some of the fresh and tasty offerings that grow naturally in the area and discuss some useful and medicinal plants that can be found as well.

We will also sample some preserved foraged foods that Bob has collected throughout the year.

- Where: John Bunker Sands Wetland Center
- Time: 10:00am - 12:00pm
- Cost: $10.00/person; Member $5.00
- Prepaid Reservations Required
- Space is Limited
- Email: ldunn@wetlandcenter.com
- Call: 972-474-9100

Bob Richie is a Dallas native who raises bees, chickens, rabbits, cats and dogs. He likes almost everything outdoors. An amateur naturalist since an early age he has spent much of his life outdoors.

When Bob's not spending time outdoors he works for an architectural firm in Deep Ellum and is the owner of The Custom Coop Company which builds custom chicken coops. Bob is a certified Texas Master Naturalist

